Glimpses of the Day!

It did drizzle in this cloudy morning!

Galah companionship!

Stick insect on a branch (rather than on a stick)!

Decomposing fox in the main wetland!

I have been visiting the wetlands for nearly 10 years now, but I have never seen anything like this. I was trying to feel the texture of tree bark falling off a dead marri tree and I noticed this intricate and yet beautiful highway like pattern/artwork left behind by ants.

Bull ants defending their home!

A moth resting on wide open hakea seed!
